A Citizen’s Guide To Preventing & Reporting Elder Abuse

Brought to you by the California Department of Justice

Co-sponsored by AARP
Dear Fellow Californians:

Based on state and federal statistics, nearly 200,000 Californians are victims of elder abuse every year. Already of crisis proportion, the problem threatens to grow worse as the “graying” of the Baby Boom generation results in unprecedented demographic shifts. Specifically, the United States Census Bureau projects that California’s elderly population, already the largest in the nation, will nearly double in size within the next two decades.

What must Californians be prepared to do?

Eighteenth-century Irish statesman Edmund Burke once wrote, “The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good [people] to do nothing.” The same can be said about how Californians respond to elder abuse – one of the most disturbing and rapidly growing areas of crime in the new millennium. Seniors, with their families and caretakers, should learn to recognize the telltale indicators of abuse and how to take precautions against becoming victims. In the wake of victimization, they need to know how to respond and to whom they can turn for aid.

To assist Californians in learning how to combat elder abuse, some of the state’s most respected elder abuse prosecutors, investigators, elder advocates and scholars were called upon to produce a knowledge base from which seniors and their caretakers can draw. The result is this thirty-six page free publication, “A Citizen’s Guide to Preventing & Reporting Elder Abuse.”

Decades of experience and expertise help shape this guide. Coupled with your diligence and care, this resource will assist in ensuring that California’s elderly will live with security and dignity.
Introduction

This guide is divided into three chapters. Chapter 1 addresses three of today's most prevalent areas of elder abuse:

- Physical and emotional abuse
- Financial abuse
- Abuse in long-term care facilities

In each of these areas, the guide provides (1) a basic overview and definition; (2) a discussion of the most common warning signs; and (3) practical advice on how to protect yourself, a loved one or friend from victimization.

Chapter 2 explains how to report elder abuse and to whom.

Chapter 3 provides a collection of valuable websites to readers in search of additional advice and information.

Three Indisputable Facts about Elder Abuse:

- Other than the victim’s age, elder abuse is a crime which is indiscriminate in choosing who it strikes. Factors such as one’s socio-economic status, gender, race, ethnicity, educational background and geographic location do not provide an impregnable barrier against its broad, horrible reach.

- Elder abuse victims often live in silent desperation, unwilling to seek assistance because they unfortunately believe their cries for help will go unanswered and they fear retaliation from their abusers. Many remain silent to protect abusive family members from the legal consequences of their crimes, or are too embarrassed to admit that they have fallen victim to predators. Others fear that no one will believe them — chalking up their allegations to the effects of old age.

Thus, it may take the courage of a caring family member, friend or caretaker to take action when the victim may be reluctant.

- With your vigilance, care and cooperation, elder abuse can be stopped and its perpetrators arrested and prosecuted. In the past four years alone, social service and law enforcement resources have expanded dramatically to meet the growing need. HELP IS AVAILABLE.

Remember:

If you suspect abuse, report it.
What is Physical and Emotional Elder Abuse?

Physical abuse includes:
- Physical assault
- Sexual assault
- Unreasonable physical constraint
- Prolonged deprivation of food or water
- Inappropriate use of a physical or chemical restraint or psychotropic medication

Neglect includes:
- Failure to assist in personal hygiene
- Failure to provide clothing and shelter
- Failure to provide medical care
- Failure to protect from health and safety hazards
- Failure to prevent malnutrition or dehydration
- Self-neglect

Emotional abuse includes:
- Verbal assaults, threats or intimidation
- Subjecting an individual to fear, isolation or serious emotional distress
- Withholding of emotional support
- Confinement

Recognizing the Warning Signs

The existence of any one or more of these does not necessarily mean that abuse has occurred. Instead, treat them as signs that diligent attention or investigation is needed.

Physical warning signs:
- Uncombed or matted hair
- Poor skin condition or hygiene
- Unkempt or dirty
- Patches of hair missing or bleeding scalp
- Any untreated medical condition
- Malnourished or dehydrated
- Foul smelling
- Torn or bloody clothing or undergarments
- Scratches, blisters, lacerations or pinch marks
- Unexplained bruises or welts
- Burns caused by scalding water, cigarettes or ropes
- Injuries that are incompatible with explanations
- Any injuries that reflect an outline of an object, for example, a belt, cord or hand
Behavioral warning signs:

• Withdrawn
• Confused or extremely forgetful
• Depressed
• Helpless or angry
• Hesitant to talk freely
• Frightened
• Secretive

Isolation warning signs:

Isolation of an elder is an insidious tool used by many abusers. Accomplished with the systematic exclusion of all real outside contact, the elder victim is eventually driven to distrust friends, doctors and even close family members. Ultimately, the elder victim becomes a pawn – manipulated into trusting only the abuser.

• Family members or caregivers have isolated the elder, restricting the elder’s contact with others, including family, visitors, doctors, clergy or friends.

• Elder is not given the opportunity to speak freely or have contact with others without the caregiver being present.

REPORTING ELDER ABUSE:

• Any person who suspects that abuse of an elder has occurred should report it. When in doubt, always err on the side of caution and report.

• Abuse can continue and often escalates if there is no intervention. Known or suspected cases of abuse should be reported to the appropriate agencies or to local law enforcement.

• Intervention can often save the assets, health, dignity or even the life of an elder.

HOW TO REPORT ELDER ABUSE:

• If a known or suspected incident of elder abuse has occurred in a long-term care facility, the report should be made to the local Long-Term Care Ombudsman, the local law enforcement agency or the Bureau of Medi-Cal Fraud and Elder Abuse.*

• If abuse has occurred anywhere other than in a facility, reports should be made to the local county Adult Protective Services agency or to the local law enforcement agency.*

• The reporting person is protected from both criminal and civil liability.

*See chapter 2 (starting on page 20) for more details on how to file a report and how to contact your nearest reporting agency.
Financial abuse is the theft or embezzlement of money or any other property from an elder. It can be as simple as taking money from a wallet and as complex as manipulating a victim into turning over property to an abuser. This form of abuse can be devastating because an elder victim’s life savings can disappear in the blink of an eye, leaving them unable to provide for their needs and afraid of what an uncertain tomorrow will bring.
Recognizing the Warning Signs

The existence of any one or more of these indicators does not necessarily mean that abuse has occurred. Instead, treat them as signs that diligent attention or investigation is needed.

Behavioral warning signs:

• Withdrawn
• Confused or extremely forgetful
• Depressed
• Helpless or angry
• Hesitant to talk freely
• Frightened
• Secretive

Isolation warning signs:

• Elder is isolated or lonely with no visitors or relatives. Family members or caregiver isolate the individual, restricting the person’s contact with others.
• Elder is not given the opportunity to speak freely or have contact with others without the caregiver being present.

Other warning signs include:

• Unusual bank account activity, such as withdrawals from automatic teller machines when the individual cannot get to the bank.
• Signatures on checks and other documents that do not resemble the elder’s signature.
• Checks or other documents signed when the elder cannot write or understand what he or she is signing.
• Lack of personal amenities – appropriate clothing and grooming items.
• Numerous unpaid bills when someone else has been designated to pay the bills.
• Change in spending patterns, such as buying items he or she doesn’t need and can’t use.
• The appearance of a stranger who begins a new close relationship and offers to manage the elder’s finances and assets.
While financial elder abuse can take many forms, the most widespread abuses include telemarketing fraud, identity theft, predatory lending and home improvement and estate planning scams.

The following seeks to familiarize you with how these crimes commonly are perpetrated and what you can do to protect yourself and your loved ones.

Telemarketing fraud:

Americans lose an estimated $40 billion each year due to the fraudulent sales of goods and services over the telephone. AARP has found that 56% of those called by telemarketers are aged 50 or older.

It can be extremely difficult to tell if a telemarketing call is legitimate. This is especially true if you are being pressured to make an instant decision; for example, to send money right away in order to claim a prize that has been won. Scams can range from prize offers to travel packages to phony charities.

Be wary of telemarketing sales pitches such as these:

- “You have won a lottery, but in order to claim the money, you must send a payment to pay the taxes on the money you have won.”
- “We can give you a great home loan at a great price, regardless of your credit.”
- “We are offering you a fantastic buy on your favorite magazines; this is the last day and we must receive your money by midnight to guarantee this offer.”
Telemarketing Do's and Don’ts Include:

DO:
• Ask telemarketers for their company’s name and address.
• Ask the caller to send you written material to study before you make a purchase.
• Talk to family and friends; get advice from someone you trust before you make any large purchase or investment.
• Request that your phone number be removed from the telemarketer’s list.

DON’T:
• Pay for any prize or send money to improve your chances to win or receive a prize.
• Give any caller your credit card number or any other form of personal identification.

Remember: It is very difficult to tell if a telemarketing call is legitimate. Be cautious and do not let any caller intimidate you.

Don’t be afraid to hang up!

“DO NOT CALL” LIST

Beginning April 1, 2003, the California Department of Justice plans to maintain a “do not call” list, containing the telephone numbers and zip codes of residential or wireless telephone customers who do not want to receive telephone solicitations. Telephone solicitors will be prohibited from calling subscribers whose numbers are placed on the “do not call” list.

Individuals will be able to place their names on the “do not call” list using the Internet or by calling a toll-free telephone number. Please visit the California Department of Justice’s web site at www.ag.ca.gov/donotcall to check on when this service becomes available.
Identity theft:

Identity theft is a frightening and fast-growing crime. There are more than 500,000 new victims each year. It is an easy crime to commit because every identifying number an individual possesses – Social Security, credit card, driver’s license, telephone – is a key that can unlock some storage of money or goods.

Identity thieves can obtain your personal information easily, not only by stealing your wallet, but also by taking mail from your mailbox, going through your trash for discarded receipts and bills or asking for it over the phone on some pretext. The identity thief can also get your personal information by watching your transactions at automated teller machines and phone booths to capture your personal identification number. Social Security numbers can even be bought on the Internet for as little as $20 each!

How to protect yourself from identity theft:

- Dispose of papers with personal information by tearing up charge receipts, bank statements, expired credit cards or offers for new credit cards.

- Never give out your Social Security number unless you have initiated the contact and you are familiar with the institution. Do not have your Social Security number printed on your checks.

- Do not give any of your personal account numbers over the phone unless you have placed the call and know the individual with whom you are speaking.
Home improvement scams:

Home improvement scams are often committed by groups of individuals who go door-to-door in an effort to sell “home improvement” services. Often, they come into a neighborhood and offer to repair a driveway or re-shingle a roof which they claim is in immediate need of repair. They promise to do the work for a very low fee if the individual agrees to have the work done immediately. When the victim agrees, he or she discovers the fee is much higher after the work has been completed or that the work was done using inferior materials. Quite often the scam artist will do the work for a low fee for one resident in a neighborhood to create a referral in the area to draw in other victims.

It is important to remember that often these individuals can do more than overcharge or perform shoddy work. Sometimes one individual will work outside and another may go into the house for a drink of water and then steal valuables. Far too often the victim does not know the items are missing until the criminals are gone.
Home Improvement Do’s and Don’ts Include:

DO:
- Get other bids from established businesses; if the deal is too good to be true, it may very well be a scam.
- Be suspicious if someone comes to your door or calls you with an offer to do a home improvement.
- Obtain the contractor’s license number and contact the Contractors State License Board, Better Business Bureau or Chamber of Commerce to determine that the person offering to perform the home improvement is licensed and reputable.
- Insist on and check out referrals.

DON’T:
- Rush. Rarely is there a legitimate reason for an offer that is good “for today only.” Be very suspicious.
- Accept work from an unlicensed contractor – EVER.
- Allow work to be done without a written contract that, among other considerations, specifies materials used, a completion date and a fair payment schedule that pays for work as it is completed.
- Pay a down payment before commencement of work which exceeds one thousand dollars ($1,000) or 10 percent of the contract price for home improvements, whichever is less.

Predatory lending:

More than 80% of Americans aged 50 and older are homeowners. Elders are often the target of unscrupulous lenders who pressure them into high-interest loans they may not be able to repay. Older homeowners are often persuaded to borrow money through home equity loans for home repairs, debt consolidation or to pay health care costs. These loans are sold as a “miracle financial cure,” and homeowners are devastated to find out they cannot afford to pay off the loans and, as a result, may lose their home. Often these loans are packed with excessive fees, costly credit insurance, pre-payment penalties and balloon payments.
Estate planning hazards:

“Estate planning” is the ordering of one’s affairs so that personal and financial matters will be taken care of upon death or incapacitation. Estate planning devices may include wills, trusts, powers of attorney, advance health care directives and joint tenancies.

People can take advantage of the power given to them in estate planning devices. For example, a “Power of Attorney” works well if it contains clear directions that reflect your wishes and vests your care and well-being with a reliable individual. On the other hand, a “Power of Attorney” can lead to elder abuse if it grants power to a person with no interest in protecting you. Powers of Attorney can be used to take money from your bank, transfer property and even have you involuntarily placed in a long-term care facility.

Is someone exercising undue influence over you?

Undue influence is present when there is a confidential relationship between you and another person and the person gains unfair advantage over you. Undue influence is present when someone isolates you from family and friends and then convinces you to execute estate planning documents in that person’s favor.
Can a conflict of interest occur between you, the person preparing your estate plan and the person benefitting from the arrangements?

A conflict of interest may occur when a person who is going to benefit from your estate planning, such as a beneficiary to your will, arranges to have you meet with a financial planner or attorney, directs the professional advisor as to what is to be done and/or pays the professional advisor’s fees.

Who might financially abuse you?

Conservators, caregivers, agents acting under durable powers of attorney, trustees, representative payees, financial planners, attorneys, family members and friends can be potential financial abusers.

Are there remedies for financial abuse?

The best remedy is to prevent the abuse by carefully choosing trustworthy people to act as agents, successor trustees or conservators when preparing estate planning documents. However, if you believe that a person already designated is not acting in your best interests, you can amend or end a power of attorney or revocable trust. You can also demand an accounting. If there is evidence of mismanagement, the agent also can be required to make restitution to you. Victims can seek assistance from law enforcement or file a civil lawsuit. Punitive damages may be imposed if there is evidence of oppression, fraud or malice.

REPORTING ELDER ABUSE:

- Any person who suspects that abuse of an elder has occurred should report it. When in doubt, always err on the side of caution and report.

- Abuse can continue and often escalates if there is no intervention. Known or suspected cases of abuse should be reported to the appropriate agencies or to local law enforcement.

- Intervention can often save the assets, health, dignity or even the life of an elder.

HOW TO REPORT ELDER ABUSE:

- If a known or suspected instance of elder abuse has occurred in a long-term care facility, the report should be made to the local Long-Term Care Ombudsman, the local law enforcement agency or the Bureau of Medi-Cal Fraud and Elder Abuse.*

- If abuse has occurred anywhere other than in a facility, reports should be made to the local county Adult Protective Services agency or to the local law enforcement agency.*

- The reporting person is protected from both criminal and civil liability.

*See chapter 2 (starting on page 20) for more details on how to file a report and how to contact your nearest reporting agency.
What is Long-Term Care?
More than two out of every five Americans will need long-term care at some point in their lives.

Long-term care encompasses a wide variety of settings and services designed specifically to meet the special needs of elders. Long-term care services can be found in settings such as skilled nursing facilities, residential care facilities for the elderly, intermediate care facilities and sub-acute care facilities.

Long-term care may include medical assistance, such as administering medication, ambulation assistance, or performing rehabilitation therapy. But more typically it involves assistance with the activities of daily living, including personal hygiene, dressing, bathing, meal preparation, feeding, and travel to medical services. It often includes supervision, such as protecting a person from wandering away or inadvertently injuring themselves.

These facilities are generally licensed by either the California Department of Health Services or the California Department of Social Services.

How to Choose a Long-Term Care Facility
Choosing a long-term care facility, such as a skilled nursing facility or a residential care facility, is one of the most difficult decisions one can make.
The Following are Some Suggestions for Selecting a Long-Term Care Facility:

• Plan ahead. This gives you and your family more control and can help make sure that your needs are met.

• Visit on-line resources such as those listed in Chapter 3 of this booklet. These on-line resources provide information on long-term care, including facility profiles. Facility profiles contain everything from the location, size and type of the facility and its staff to a history of a facility’s violations of California and federal care laws.

• Visit the facility and meet the administrator. Ask to see the entire facility, not just one wing or floor.

• Ask to see the facility’s license and the latest inspection report by either the Department of Health Services or Social Services on the facility’s performance.

• Try to visit the facility more than once and at different times of the day. Make a point to visit at mealtimes, during activity periods and also at nights and on the weekends.

• Try to choose a facility that is close and convenient to those who will be visiting most often. When family and friends are able to visit frequently, they can oversee the resident’s condition and actively participate in care decisions. It also enables family or friends to be able to respond quickly in times of emergencies.

• Contact your local Long-Term Care Ombudsman for information about a particular facility. Talk to friends, other residents’ family members or any other individuals who may be familiar with the facility.

• Be observant. When visiting or making inquiries, pay attention to how residents are treated by staff members. Nothing is more important than the quality and quantity of facility staff.

• Don’t be afraid to ask questions. Does the facility offer the religious or cultural support the elder resident needs? Does the facility provide an appropriate diet? Is the primary language of the resident spoken by the staff?
Recognizing the Warning Signs

The existence of any one or more of these indicators does not necessarily mean that abuse has occurred. Instead, treat them as signs that diligent attention or investigation is needed.

Physical warning signs:
- Call light is not functioning or is removed from resident’s reach
- Development or worsening of pressure sores
- Excessive weight loss
- Unusual or recurring scratches, bruises, skin tears or welts
- Bilateral bruising (bruises on opposite sides of the body)
- “Wrap around” bruises (bruises that typically encircle the arm)
- Torn, stained or bloody underclothing
- Signs of excessive drugging
- Foul smelling, uncombed or matted hair
- Patches of hair missing or bleeding scalp
- Injuries that are incompatible with explanations
- Injuries caused by biting, cutting, pinching or twisting of limbs
- Burns caused by scalding water, cigarettes or ropes
- Any injuries that reflect an outline of an object, for example a belt, cord or hand

Behavioral warning signs:
- Withdrawn
- Confused or extremely forgetful
- Depressed
- Helpless or angry
- Hesitant to talk freely
- Frightened
- Secretive
Isolation warning signs:

Isolation of an elder is an insidious tool used by many abusers. Accomplished with the systematic exclusion of all real outside contact, the elder victim is eventually driven to distrust friends, doctors and even close family members. Ultimately, the elder victim becomes a pawn – manipulated into trusting only the abuser.

- Family members or caregivers have isolated the elder, restricting the elder’s contact with others, including family, visitors, doctors, clergy or friends.
- Elder is not given the opportunity to speak freely or have contact with others without the caregiver being present.

Financial abuse warning signs:

- Disappearance of papers, checkbooks or legal documents.
- Staff assisting residents with credit card purchases or ATM withdrawals.
- Lack of amenities, such as appropriate clothing, grooming items, etc.
- Bills unpaid despite availability of adequate financial resources.
- Unusual activity in bank accounts, such as withdrawals from automatic teller machines when the person cannot get to the bank.
- Provision of services that are not necessary or requested.
- The appearance of a stranger who begins a close relationship and offers to manage the elder’s finances and assets.
Residents of skilled nursing facilities are guaranteed certain rights and protections under federal and state law. Facilities are required to provide a copy of these rights to individuals upon admittance to a facility. For more information and a complete listing of residents’ rights, contact the California Department of Health Services at: www.dhs.ca.gov/LNC/nhrights/

Each resident has the right to:

Dignity & Privacy:
- Be treated with consideration, respect and dignity
- Privacy during treatment and personal care
- Receive and make phone calls in private
- Send and receive mail unopened
- Visit privately with family, friends and others

Medical Condition & Treatment:
- Be fully informed by a physician of his or her total health status
- Participate in health care planning and treatment decisions
- Choose a personal physician
- Be free from unnecessary drug treatment
Abuse & Chemical & Physical Restraints:
• Be free from verbal, sexual, physical and mental abuse, corporal punishment and involuntary seclusion
• Be free from any physical or chemical restraints - given for the purposes of discipline or staff convenience - which are not required to treat the resident’s medical symptoms

Safety & Hygiene:
• Receive care from an adequate number of qualified personnel
• Receive care necessary to ensure good personal hygiene
• Receive care to prevent and reduce both bedsores and incontinence
• Receive food of the quality and quantity to meet the resident’s needs in accordance with a physician’s orders
• Reside in a facility which is clean, sanitary and in good repair at all times

Transfer & Discharge:
• Be transferred or discharged only if he or she has recovered to the point of not needing nursing facility care
• Be transferred or discharged only if it is necessary for the resident’s welfare or if his or her needs cannot be met in the facility
• Be transferred or discharged only if the health or safety of others is endangered
• Be transferred or discharged if he or she has failed to pay for care or the facility ceases to operate

Grievances:
• Voice grievances and recommend changes in policies or services to facility staff, free from restraint, discrimination or reprisal
Chapter 2 Reporting Elder Abuse

Reporting Abuse

Any person who suspects that abuse of an elder has occurred can and should report it. Another’s assets, health, dignity and/or life may depend upon your courage to act.

Abuse can continue and often escalates if there is no intervention. Known or suspected cases of abuse should be reported to the appropriate agencies in your area. When in doubt, err on the side of caution and report.

Remember:

Intervention can save a life!
Reporting suspected abuse is simple.

To report abuse that has occurred in a long-term care facility, such as a nursing home or residential care facility, call the local Long-Term Care Ombudsman, your local law enforcement agency or the Bureau of Medi-Cal Fraud and Elder Abuse. You may also file a complaint with the appropriate state regulatory agency.

If the suspected abuse has occurred anywhere other than in a facility, reports should be made to the local county Adult Protective Services Agency or to local law enforcement.

As a person reporting abuse, you are shielded from both criminal and civil liability.

See the following listings within this booklet for information concerning reporting agencies.

Mandated Reporters

Under California law, certain individuals are legally mandated to report known or suspected instances of elder abuse. The following is a partial list of mandated reporters:

- Physicians and medical professionals
- Clergy
- All employees of health care facilities, such as hospitals, skilled nursing facilities, adult day care centers and residential care facilities
- Any individual who assumes responsibility for the care or custody of an elderly person

Any mandated reporter who fails to report elder abuse may be guilty of a crime.

(California Welfare and Institutions Code section 15630)
Part B  To Whom to Report

Adult Protective Services (APS)

Each county Adult Protective Services agency (APS) provides assistance to the elderly and adults who are functionally impaired, and who are possible victims of abuse, exploitation or neglect, including self neglect.

Adult Protective Services agencies investigate reports of abuse that occur in private homes, acute care hospitals, clinics, adult day care facilities and social day care centers. In 1998, California passed a law mandating all APS agencies to provide a 24-hour, 7-day a week hotline to respond to all reports of suspected abuse. APS may also provide various services to address the abuse or neglect, such as case management, emergency shelter or in-home protection, transportation, counseling, etc., to guarantee the safety of an endangered elder. Availability of assistance programs is dependent upon a county’s budgetary resources.

Suspected or known abuse that occurs anywhere other than in a long-term care facility should always be reported to the local Adult Protective Services agency or local law enforcement.

Long-Term Care Ombudsman Program

Ombudsmen are trained individuals who advocate for the protection and rights of all residents in long-term care facilities. These facilities include skilled nursing facilities, residential care facilities for the elderly, community care facilities and intermediate care facilities. The primary responsibility of the Ombudsman program is to investigate and resolve complaints made by, or on behalf of, individual residents.

If known or suspected abuse has occurred in a long-term care facility, a report can be made to the local county Long-Term Care Ombudsman or the toll-free 24-hour crisis line.

Your local Police and Sheriff’s Departments should be contacted if you or someone you know may be the victim of elder abuse. Many local law enforcement agencies have dedicated Elder Abuse Units. Call the general information number for your local Police or Sheriff’s Department, and ask if they have an Elder Abuse Unit. If there is an emergency, you should call 911 immediately.

Many County District Attorney and City Attorney Offices also have units devoted to the investigation and prosecution of elder abuse. Below are the listings for all County District Attorney Offices.

Nationally recognized as being innovative and cutting edge in its law enforcement approaches, the Department of Justice’s Bureau of Medi-Cal Fraud and Elder Abuse both protects the state’s $27 billion Medi-Cal program from fraud and abuse, and investigates and prosecutes elder abuse, neglect and poor quality of care occurring in long-term care facilities.

The Bureau meets a vital need by safeguarding our elderly and by protecting the health care system that serves the less fortunate members of our population. Californians should rest assured that they have a committed ally and protector in the Bureau of Medi-Cal Fraud and Elder Abuse.

If you suspect Medi-Cal fraud or elder abuse, please call the Bureau’s toll-free hotline at (800) 722-0432. For more specific information about the Bureau, please log onto our web site at: www.ag.ca.gov/bmfea/
